PRACTICE AREA: LITIGATION

Bruce A. Singal joined the firm in 1997 and established its Litigation practice, which he now Co-Chairs along with serving as the Co-Chair of the firm's Research Misconduct Department. He represents business executives, corporations, and professionals who are under investigation or indictment for a wide variety of white-collar crimes. These include cases alleging: fraud in the areas of healthcare, securities, accounting, banking, bankruptcy, insurance, and defense procurement; businesses and individuals charged with export, environmental, tax, and other federal and state crimes; public officials charged with bribes, kickbacks, corruption, and ethics violations; and Foreign Corrupt Practices Act cases.

Bruce also conducts complex commercial litigation involving major disputes between businesses; between businesses and their employees; and between family members over family businesses and assets. These include actions for breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, unfair and deceptive practices, torts, trade secrets, copyright infringement, and challenges to governmental action. In addition, he represents physicians, lawyers, scientists, accountants, other professionals, and public officials in disciplinary, licensing, regulatory, misconduct, and ethics proceedings. This included representation of a scientist in a major scientific misconduct case detailed in The Baltimore Case, by Daniel Kevles (W.W. Norton & Co., 1998).

In addition, Bruce conducts internal investigations and compliance audits for corporations, healthcare institutions, universities, and public and quasi-public agencies, and represents universities and research hospitals in scientific misconduct proceedings.

AWARDS & RECOGNITIONS

During his over 40 years as a trial lawyer, Bruce has received numerous honors and distinctions. In 2003, he was selected as a Fellow of the prestigious American College of Trial Lawyers, which is "composed of the best of the trial bar from the United States and Canada...who have mastered the art of advocacy..."

In 2018, Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly recognized Bruce as a Lawyer of the Year for his representation of Barry Cadden in the nationally-covered New England Compounding Center criminal case arising out of the 2012 meningitis outbreak.

For eight of the past ten years he has been selected by his peers as one of the Top 10 lawyers in Massachusetts, and as one of the Top 100 lawyers in New England (Super Lawyers, 2008-2018).* He is also listed in The Best Lawyers in America based on selection by his peers for excellence in the categories of White Collar Criminal Defense and Commercial Litigation (2008-2019 editions) and Bet-The-Company Litigation (2017-2019).*
